

Krista Kirksey Thomas

For 16 years, Krista Kirksey Thomas has served the cancer community of Arkansas at the American Cancer Society. Currently, Krista is the Cancer Control Strategic Partnerships Manager for the state of Arkansas. When she's not calling the hogs for her beloved Razorbacks, she's partnering with the state, hospital systems and federally qualified health systems to make an impact on cancer prevention and early detection and quality of life for cancer patients and caregivers. Krista lives in Little Rock with her husband, Keri, daughters, Addy and Emmy, and dog, Marley.
